GRANDFATHERING

ROAD-TO-INDEPENDENCE & INDEPENDENT LIVING
Young adults currently enrolled in the former Road-to-Independence (RTI) and Independent Living (IL) programs may, through grandfathering, continue in those programs until they leave due to loss of eligibility, age, college graduation, or voluntary exit. The young adult should make an informed decision as to whether remaining in RTI or transferring to the new PESS program would be best.

However, should the young adult subsequently leave the RTI or IL program and then wish to re-enter, he or she will not be allowed to re-enter RTI or IL. The only option at that point will be to enter Extended Foster Care OR to apply for PESS if the young adult is enrolled in a postsecondary institution.

AFTERCARE
Aftercare is not a grandfathered service – young adults must meet the new eligibility criteria.
